PREAMBLE

The Signatory Associations⁷ agree that many benefits exist to the international community in establishing a transparent, robust, and professionally and ethically sound basis for mutual recognition by one Signatory Association of the requirements for certification⁸ or full membership⁹ of speech-language pathologists¹⁰ granted by other Signatory Associations. These benefits include:

- Assisting the academic community, continuing education providers, industry, regulatory authorities and the public by identifying common standards of clinical competence.
- Facilitating the ongoing exchange of knowledge as it relates to such issues as research, continuing professional development, emerging technologies, and other aspects of professional practice.
- Promoting greater international understanding of the role of speech-language pathologists.
- Improving the mobility of individuals with approved credentials for employment.
- Responding to respective governmental interests in reducing trade barriers.
- Streamlining the mutual recognition process for individuals who are credentialed by the Signatory Associations.
- Providing a process for the inclusion of other professional associations from interested countries in the mutual recognition of qualifications and credentials for speech-language pathologists.

Whereas, within their respective jurisdictions, the Signatory Associations are the nationally recognised professional associations¹¹ for the profession of speech-language pathology; and

Whereas, the Signatory Associations have programmes of certification and/or attaining full membership or ascertaining eligibility for certification or full membership that have gained acceptance and recognition within their respective countries and that, in accordance with certain specified standards, recognise individuals within the field of speech-language pathology as having obtained the basic education, knowledge and competencies determined necessary to provide independent clinical services in the field; and

⁷ See Glossary of Terms entry No. 21 ‘Signatory Association(s)’

⁸ See Glossary of Terms entry No. 4 ‘Certification’

⁹ See Glossary of Terms entry No. 12 ‘Full Membership’

¹⁰ See Glossary of Terms entry No. 22 ‘Speech-Language Pathologist’

¹¹ See Glossary of Terms entry No. 18 ‘Professional Association’

Whereas, the Signatory Associations recognise that increased trade and mobility between the United States of America, Canada, Ireland, New Zealand, the United Kingdom, and Australia has increased the need for, and desirability of, speech-language pathologists of one Association to obtain recognition by another Association; and

Whereas the Signatory Associations recognise that national, state, or provincial/territorial licensing or registration¹² may be required for practice in a particular jurisdiction whether or not an individual practitioner is certified or holds full membership or eligibility for certification or full membership; and

Whereas the Signatory Associations recognise that this Agreement does not apply to such licensing or registration; and

Whereas the Signatory Associations further recognise that all individuals applying under this Agreement will, in addition to the terms addressed in this Agreement, also need to meet any other legal or other requirements that may be imposed through immigration standards or national, state, or provincial/territorial laws; and

Whereas, the Signatory Associations, having utilised a mutually agreed set of negotiating principles, processes and terminology to examine the practice of the professions in the respective countries including codes of ethics, scopes of practice, degree of autonomy; and

Whereas the Signatory Associations, having utilised a mutually agreed set of negotiating principles, processes and terminology to examine the certification standards of ASHA, SAC, RCSLT and Speech Pathology Australia and the standards for obtaining full membership of IASLT and NZSTA, including required academic and clinical education in accordance with the Home association's programmatic standards, accreditation of academic programmes in each Home association's respective country, degree titles, clinical experience, and assessment mechanisms; and

Whereas the Signatory Associations, having utilised a mutually agreed set of negotiating principles and processes and terminology to examine the certification processes of ASHA, SAC, RCSLT and Speech Pathology Australia and the processes for obtaining full membership of IASLT and NZSTA for determining initial recognition, maintenance, and renewal including the surveillance mechanisms of each of the Signatory Associations; and

Whereas, the Signatory Associations determine that within the terms and conditions set forth below, the certification process of ASHA, SAC, RCSLT and Speech Pathology Australia and the process for obtaining full membership of IASLT and NZSTA and standards of each organisation provide a substantially equivalent determination of an individual's preparation for certification or full membership for the Signatory Associations where the applicant received their qualifications and credentials to practice from an accredited education program in Australia, Canada, Ireland, New Zealand, the United Kingdom or the United States of America; and

Whereas, the Signatory Associations desire to provide a mechanism by which individuals who are recognized by one Association can, through mutual recognition and subject to conditions specified below, obtain initial certification (ASHA, SAC, RCSLT and Speech Pathology Australia) and/or eligibility for initial certification (Speech Pathology Australia) or full membership (IASLT and NZSTA) by the other Associations;

Whereas, the Signatory Associations agree that the New Association¹³ will provide rules and procedures for the continued recognition of the credentials of an individual who obtains initial certification or eligibility for certification or full membership of the New Association by virtue of this MRA; and

Whereas, the Signatory Associations agree that the individual shall adhere to any certification or membership maintenance requirements as specified by their Home Association, including requirements for reinstatement, recertification, or reapplication;

Now therefore, the Signatory Associations agree to the following:

¹² See Glossary of Terms entry No. 15 'Licensure/Registration'

The certificate can be obtained by an individual who meets specific requirements in each of the following areas: graduate degree, academic course work, clinical practicum, and supervised postgraduate clinical experience. Holders must also pass the ASHA approved national examination in speech-language pathology. Holders of the CCC-SLP must abide by ASHA's Code of Ethics, which incorporates the highest standards of integrity and ethical principles, pay an annual fee, and meet the professional development requirements (30 contact hours or 3 CEUs over a three- (3) year period) to maintain their certification.
